THIS IS UNCLASSIFIED INFORMATION

1. The Fourth Department of Wismut A. G. (IV Verwaltung), also known as 25X1 UMTO, is in charge of the procurement of raw materials and equipment for the entire Wismut complex. It also controls the two principal Wismut warehouse areas, "Lager 1" located at Schwarzenberg, and "Lager 2", located at Chemnitz-Hartau. UMTO works closely with the Second Department (Zweite Verwaltung), which is also known as the "Technische Verwaltung."
2. As of February 1952 the General Director of UMTO, simultaneously the Deputy General Director of Wismut A. G., was Aleksei Pavlovich Polyakov.
 His deputies at that time were (fnu) Gredin and (fnu) Batiushev. ¹/₂ Batiushev replaced Polyakov as Director of UMTO toward the end of 1952.
3. As of the latter part of 1952 the UMTO internal structure was as follows:
 General Director of UMTO: (fnu) Batiushev
 Deputy General Director of UMTO: (fnu) Gredin
 a. Chief of Abteilung Elektro: (fnu) Gredin
 b. Chief of Abteilung Mechanische Ausruestung: (fnu) Prolov
 c. Chief of Abteilung Metalle: (fnu) Skvartsov
 d. Chief of Abteilung Hilfsmaterialien: Unknown
 e. Chief of Abteilung Eisenbahn: Unknown
 f. Chief of Abteilung Chemie: Unknown
 g. Chief of Abteilung Koebel Ausruestung: Unknown
4. Gredin's predecessor as Deputy Director of UMTO was (fnu) Sergeyevskii, who was held responsible by the Soviet Management for the failure of UMTO to secure certain specified raw materials and who was removed from this post in April 1952.
5. The following are some of the Soviet personalities at UMTO:
 - a. Aleksei Pavlovich Polyakov - UMTO General Director until the latter part of 1952. A civilian. He is believed to have come to Wismut directly from Moscow. It is not known whether or not Polyakov returned directly to the Soviet Union upon being relieved of his

j. (Fnu) Kamin - Handled the procurement of optical instruments through DHZ Feinmechanik und Optik in Chemnitz and Zwickau. The instruments, delivered by Zeiss-Jena, consisted of Markscheide (surveying) instruments, thermometers, measuring tapes, microscopes and balances. In ordering optical instruments, Kamin works closely with Bielov of the Second Department. Wismut keeps a running account with Zeiss for these instruments, amounting annually to about 200,000 DME of open orders. They also maintained a similar account with the Freiberg Optisches Werk in the amount of 50,000 DME.

In addition to the procurement of optical instruments, Kamin also handled purchases of plant tools of all varieties. These were ordered through DHZ Maschinen und Fahrzeuge, Erfurt. He handled orders for welding equipment and accessories, office machines including typewriters, calculating and adding machines. Welding equipment was obtained largely from Schaeffer und Budenberg and from DHZ Schweissbedarf, Keil und Wuensch, in Chemnitz. Office machines were bought from Rheinmetall Borsig.

10. The Abteilung Hilfsmaterialien handles procurement for Abteilung Chemie of certain laboratory equipment and instruments as well as the procurement of all containers used by Wismut. Container orders are handled only by Soviet nationals. Until recently containers for ore were sent to Wismut from the Soviet Union (sic). They are of cylindrical shape and are made of strong cardboard, about 2 centimeters in thickness, with a heavily waxed inner surface. At present, part of the containers are produced in East Germany at a plant especially built for this purpose in Saierfeld in the Erzgebirge.
